Good day!
I dont know if you can received this in any email I sent.
But I am notifying the management that I am in the process of filing a complaints with demand letter and will escalate to legal action if there's no response from your company regarding my emails and the lack of compensation for my salary.
I possess evidence to substantiate my complaints, and if there's no action from the company within 24 hours, I will publicly share the names with photos of the management team in any forms of social media and pursue legal measures regarding my salary.

Dear Ms Gracie,
Hi and again this is Rustom Dela Cruz, and I worked with you for almost two months, from April 24, 2023, until I was fired without pay or notice on June 20, 2023. I received information from many of your employees who share my faith and are taking legal action against the DDDc company and its staff including you.
I'm contacting you in the hope to claim my salary. You have previously stated that there was a problem with the direct transaction from your end international to international bank transaction, which resulted in my salary being delayed or whatever. I have already investigated with the bank that I provided you with details, and I discovered that no transactions were made from your company, even if they were unsuccessful.
I'm writing to inform you that many of us are submitting complaints to the company regarding the same unpaid issue. We will not stop the current legal action until we receive our salary, as you in particular as HR/Admin manager has ignored us despite numerous phone calls and emails.
Payment must be made as soon as possible in order to expedite the resolution of this issue.
Sincerely,
Rustom Dela Cruz
